Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel Institute of Technology, Vasad

Computer Engineering Department

Computer Engineering Department has organized expert talk on "Applications of software engineering principles in industry" on 22nd February 2019. Approximately 80 students of third year computer engineering have attended in this expert talk. At the end of this talk, students were able to understand the importance of software development life cycle. They understood how the concepts of software requirement analysis, design and testing are applied in the industry.